LOCATION: West Pavilion, Galleries W101 and W102

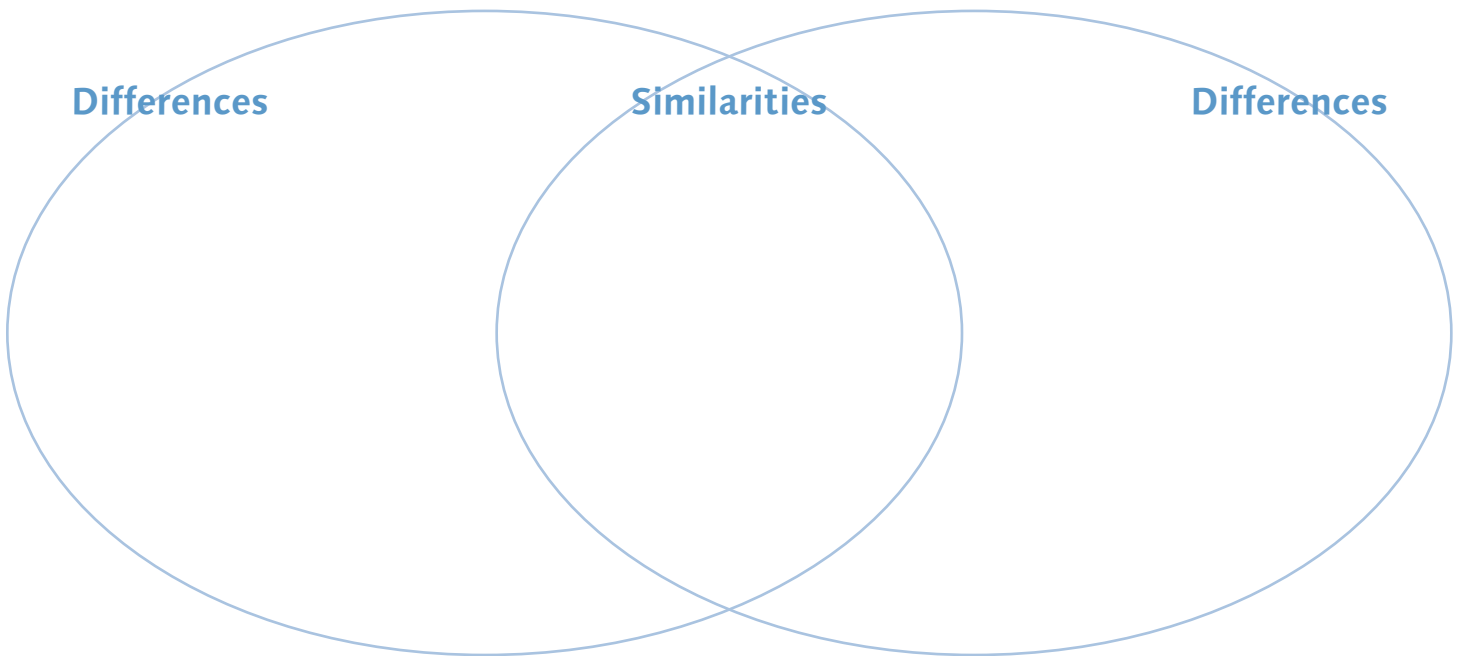

Name _____

A "bust" is a three-dimensional, sculptural portrait of someone. A bust usually depicts the head and shoulders of the sitter. The busts in this gallery are made of stone, such as marble and alabaster, and terracotta, which is clay that has been fired. Take a moment to feel the floor of the gallery—it is made of travertine, another stone that can be used in sculpture for outdoor statues or monuments.

FIRST, choose two busts in this gallery. Fill in the information below.

THEN, look closely and compare the busts using the Venn diagram, below. What are the differences between these two works of art? What do these two portraits have in common?
